

REMARKS

The amendment to the specification is to correct the citation of a document. Even without the correction, a person of ordinary skill would be able to easily determine that the incorrect citation referred to Scharf et al., Science, 233, 1076-1078 (1986), as this is the only document published in the journal Science in 1986 having Scharf as the first author. No new matter has been added to the specification by this amendment.
